

STEPHEN SONDHEIM

Few composers or lyricists can have achieved such amazing or fanatical following as Stephen Sondheim. Instantly established by his lyrics for Leonard Bernstein's score of West Side Story, in 1957, his name is now firmly established on the bill-boards of the world's theatres and the record charts. (It isn't too long since Judy Collins recording of Send in the Clowns, from "A Little Night Music", was topping charts throughout Europe and America). The list of shows with the 'Sondheim' label continues to grow, but include:-

- .... West Side Story
- .... Gypsy
- .... Company
- .... Follies
- .... A Little Night Music and of course .... tonights frolic through the streets of Rome .... "A Funny Thing Happened on the Way to the Forum".
